

Human Diversity

1-2 Nov 2018

Archaeology-Genetics-Cultural Evolution-Gender

Speakers include

Magnus Enqvist

Stockholm Centre for Cultural Evolution

N. Katherine Hayles

Duke University

Toomas Kivisild

University of Cambridge

Olivier Morin

MPI Science of Human History

Matthew Spriggs

Australian National University

An interdisciplinary conference hosted by the Human Diversity Research Network, Uppsala University

Full programme: <https://goo.gl/CBNn3T>

Venue: Gustavianum auditorium (free entry)

Human Diversity

Archaeology-Genetics-Cultural Evolution-Gender

Thursday 1 Nov, Gustavianum Auditorium

10-11	Has the question of the origins of the Polynesians now been solved? Matthew Spriggs
11-12	The Lynx ladies. Female burials furnished with lynx skins: housewives and cult leaders? Torun Zachrisson (Upplands Museum) Genetics talk TBA
12-14	Lunch
14-15	Genetic history of Siberian and New World populations Toomas Kivisild
15-16	How writing evolves (or fails to). Olivier Morin (Max Planck Institute for the Science of Human History)
16-17	Thinking and cultural evolution. Magnus Enqvist (Stockholm University Centre for Cultural Evolution)

Friday 2 Nov, Gustavianum auditorium

9-10	Frankenstein, a Genetic Diversity, and our Posthuman Futures Kate Hayles (Duke University)
10-12	Critical Infrastructures: Diversity and History through the Prism of Technology. Anna Foka (Digital Humanities, UU) Between Humans and Animals: More-than-human Perspectives on Diversity. Jacob Bull (Gender Research, UU), Rorschach on Birka? Contesting gender in the archaeology of a 'female Viking warrior' Neil Price (Archaeology, UU)

This meeting is brought to you by Uppsala University's Human Diversity Research Network, co-organised by the Department of Linguistics and Philology, the Department of Archaeology and Ancient History, The Centre for Gender Research, and the Department of Organismal Biology (Human Evolution).

Contact: Michael Dunn <michael.dunn@lingfil.uu.se>