Democratic Forms of Organisation in Prehistoric Greece

Öppen föreläsning tisdagen den 15 maj,
klockan 16:15 i sal 2-0024

Borja Legarra Herrero, Teaching Fellow,
Comparative Mediterranean Prehistory,
UCL, besöker Institutionen för arkeologi och antik historia

“It could be argued tendencies to broaden political and economic power can be found in any complex society. However, to see elite-common tensions as a developing theme in prehistory and Early Iron Age that was only resolved in Classical times would be a simplistic characterisation. Bronze Age Aegean show clear signs of complex socio-political forms that we could consider loosely as ‘democratic’ (power decisions are spread across large swathes of society) being in place much earlier than we normally assume.”

Efter föreläsningen äger en enkel mottagning rum i institutionens lunchrum.
Alla är välkomna!
